

Lifting the ownership restrictions on media outlets will further erode the diversity of media in the United States. This will result in nothing more than a consolidation of power, something which will ultimately result in a decrease in quality of news and information available to the public. This should not be allowed to occur, and should instead be strengthened to protect independent media.